Pamela Fairbanks Not until I read his book "Freedom" did all the questions I had get answered. Everything began to slowly fall into place and the world began to make sense. I'm on chapter 9 and find I need to take the book in very slowly, so that I'm able to absorb the information. I have been sleeping in the cave and am now becoming enlightened. Thank you Mr. Griffith, for your hard work and dedication. I hope you begin to see a change, for humanities sake!

Sally Edgar Yes, as Griffith says, the human condition is THE underlying issue in all human affairs and his biological explanation of it brings much needed understanding to the mess us humans find ourselves in and finally ends all our pain and suffering. The videos are so compelling and insightful and Griffith's book Freedom: The End of the Human Condition is a must-read!!!

Marcus Rowell Many of the comments here highlight that we humans appear to be "scourge", we are only going to "strip every possible...resource" and that "overpopulation and greed are the problem". They ask, how are some books and videos going to change the world?

Doug Lobban Totally agree that we need real understanding of ourselves and our human condition if we are going to get any where in really repairing the world and all the man made problems.
