Hello globalbrainers
 Just a short note more of an introduction than anything I suppose, it is good to finally find people of a like mind which is the obvious intention of this group. I have looked over some of your past conversations but primarily it is the human condition which I would care to know more of your thoughts on. I read jeremy griffiths first book 'FREE THE END OF THE HUMAN CONDITION' about three years ago and much has happened since in that time. The truth truly does set you free. I was fortunate enough to attend the launch in sydney earlier this year and to meet jeremy and the other foundation members, they are all wonderful people but then how could they not be having lived with the truth for over a decade now. There are many things that I look forward to discussing with the group and would hope to hear from someone soon. I'm down here in australia, there will be many good things to come from australia over the immediate future and beyond I think. So write soon, but I'm no scholar so you'll have to go easy on me, but then I don't have to be to understand something as simple and perfect as the truth. Write and tell me where your all at and what's been happening.
